

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR. NO. 52.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH: SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1891—TWENTY PAGES.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

A COMELY MAIDEN

Nannie Babcock Waiting for Her
Absent Lover.

THE WEDDING DAY WAS SET

A Cold Blooded Murder in Arizona—Thrown from a Horse and Killed—Sample
Swindler Flynn Still at Large.

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—Nannie Babcock is as comely a maiden as ever walked the streets of Pueblo. She lives with a widowed mother at 354 West Eighth street. About a year ago Nannie Babcock and her sister Nellie were walking from the mattress factory in the northern part of the city in the evening, and while walking along the railroad track a train came swiftly upon them from behind, its noise denoted by another train passing on the next track, striking Nellie and killing her instantly. Nannie Babcock has a sister living in Denver. While paying her sister a visit she met a man, a contractor and builder, by the name of A. W. Lewis. The acquaintance grew into love. They became engaged, and were to have been married last Tuesday at the home of the bride's mother. A week previous Lewis kissed the bride good bye, and went to Kansas City to be absent a few days. She received a telegram assuring her of his arrival. The wedding day arrived and passed, and still no man whom she could take for better or worse, put in appearance. The other day a friend wrote her that Lewis was in Houston, Tex., that he was sick and in the demoralized condition of a man who has been deceived. There is something very mysterious about the whole affair which has not yet been explained.

Two Car Robbers Arrested.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—Francisco Haca and his son Juan Haca were brought here to-day and lodged in jail. For the past few weeks cars loaded with valuable merchandise have been robbed at stations, and the culprits were arrested in following up the clues arrested these men. A search of their houses revealed goods to the value of several thousand dollars, enough to start a country store with. The preliminary hearing to-day they were bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $2,000 each. Others are implicated, the thefts were from cars of the Atlantic & Pacific.

Ralph Ray Gets a Life Sentence.

DURANGO, Colo., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—Ralph Ray, the eighteen-year-old boy who killed his mother with a hatchet two months ago, was sentenced to prison for life to-day.

A Cold Blooded Murder.

FLAGSTAFF, ARIZ., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—Alex Styary, an Indian trader, arrived here to-night, and brings intelligence of a cold blooded murder at Red Lake, a trading post forty miles north of Luba City, in this county. Mr. Styary says he and Thomas Collins were seated at a table in Sam Dittmer's place playing whist when Collins suddenly struck the table with his fist, almost breaking a lamp. The cook, a woman, asked him to be quiet, when Collins uttered several oaths. Dittmer, who was in bed, called out to the cook and asked her to get Collins. He asked Collins to make no disturbance in his house, whereupon Collins advanced and called him vile names, at the same time drawing a .38 calibre revolver, and shot Dittmer through the heart. Collins held his gun, and threatened to kill anyone who came near him, and after asking if his victim was dead, backed out of the door and made his escape on horse back.

Thrown From a Horse and Killed.

BELLEVUE, Ida., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—Dan Carpenter, who was thrown from his horse last Sunday at his ranch on Sevier Creek, below Bellevue, died at noon to-day. The unfortunate young man struck on the side of his head and never regained consciousness. He will be buried in Bellevue to-night.

Sample Swindler Flynn Still at Large.

BELLEVUE, Ida., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—The Logan county term of the district court will probably adjourn Wednesday night. Judge Stock-aleger seems determined to keep the docket clear. The Altura county term will convene on Tuesday, December 8.

The Kidney King Caught.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—The mysterious King, alias Dennis, alias Spinko, who, it is said, returned the kidnapped Beas' child, was arrested this morning. He is the chief conspirator in the abduction and undoubtedly is the man who delivered the child to the police station last night. At the police station King was searched but no money found upon him. King had little to say. He denied knowing the child, and obtained the $5,000 ransom for the child, and the abduction, saying the woman could tell everything.

Albert King and his Wife Lizzie King, alias Lizzie Smith, were brought before the justice this morning and charged with the abduction of the son of David T. Beas. The prisoners pleaded "not guilty" to the charge. They could not give bonds and were committed to jail.

The King's Record in Denver.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 28.—[Special telegraph to THE HERALD.]—The arrest of the King, the Kansas City abductor, seems to have put an end to the Arapahoe county officials. If the descriptions of the man are correct, they were arrested in Denver last summer on a charge of stealing the horse of a near Manhattan dealer. They got out on bail some way or other, and the next heard was the news sent from Kansas City. They were known as Sepale and were known as an alias, and were considered hard people.

Public Indignation over the crime all along has been at a high pitch. A mob this evening began to gather around the jail where the prisoners are confined, and the temper manifested was so great that the police considered it prudent to remove the prisoners out of town. Accordingly they were taken to Independence.

George Ford, who was present when Beas paid the ransom to the unknown man, called at the jail to-day and after carefully looking over King, asserted he was not the man to whom the money was paid.

Choctaw National Party Convention.

PARIS, Texas, Nov. 28.—The Choctaw National party held its convention at Antlers and nominated B. Jackson, the present national secretary, for governor. The platform opposes allotment.

GLADSTONE SPEAKS

He Reviews Salisbury's Birmingham Argument.

THE PREMIER ROUNDLY SCORED

He Seems Ignorant of What is Going on in the British Empire—Liberal Reasons for Irish Home Rule.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Gladstone was to-day a participant in the exercises attending the formal opening of the hall at Port Sunlight, near Birkenhead. He made an address of considerable length, devoting much attention to reviewing Salisbury's argument in his Birmingham speech and declared Salisbury seemed ignorant of what was going on in the British empire. Gladstone said he had a right to say that Salisbury's speech was a masterpiece of misstatement. He said that Salisbury's speech was a masterpiece of misstatement. He said that Salisbury's speech was a masterpiece of misstatement.

A Double Killing.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Nov. 28.—A double killing occurred nine miles east of here yesterday. The victims were two well known citizens of Parker county, A. S. Freeman and William Rivers. They were neighbors between whom a feud existed.

Brown's Report on the Landing at Quintero.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Admiral Brown's report upon the circumstances attending the landing of Chilean troops at Quintero last summer has reached the navy department. In substance it is a positive denial of the charges that he made in his report to the committee on the Pacific coast.

ACRAZY FRENCHMAN.

He Imagines a Married Woman is in Love With Him.

HE PURSUES Mrs. Alexander Wherever She Goes—Was Once for Time—Inspector Byrnes Takes Him in Charge.

[Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Inspector Byrnes' detectives arrested to-day Louis Armand, a crazy Frenchman, who has been annoying Mrs. Harriett Crocker, wife of Charles B. Crocker, a lawyer of this city living at West Fifty-eighth street. Mrs. Alexander is a daughter of millionaire Crocker, of San Francisco. Armand has been a source of annoyance to Mr. and Mrs. Alexander for years. He was arrested several months ago and committed to Ward's Island insane asylum. Within a few months friends secured his release and he again persisted in paying attention to Mrs. Alexander.

HE FOLLOWED HER WHEN SHE WENT OUT, made repeated attempts to see her, and finally he followed her to her home. He became so persistent that Mr. Alexander asked Inspector Byrnes to arrest Armand, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has been married to a woman who is now in San Francisco. Armand was engaged as her French tutor, and when his time was up he followed her to her home. He began his attentions to her, and he forced himself on her presence, and became such an annoyance that the police were asked to arrest him. For two years of his life he followed her, and he was committed to-day for examination.

Armand is about thirty-five years old and well educated. He is insane on the one subject—that Mrs. Alexander loves him. He has